CULTURAL NOTES

Dahlias will grow to perfection in almost any soil provided proper care is given to the method of planting, fertilizing, cultivating and watering.

Put out tubers or plants from June 1st to July 1st. Those planted early will produce the largest tubers.

Prepare soil by spading or plowing 12 to 18 inches deep. Work into the soil well decomposed stable manure or vegetable matter, such as leaves, lawn trimmings, etc. Scatter $\frac{1}{4}$ pound of Ground Bone about each hill at planting time and $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ pound per plant applied about August 15th. As a substitute for Bone, good potato fertilizer or sheep manure may be used to advantage.

Plants are usually set 3 by 4 feet. Strong growing varieties, if well fed, may need more room. Thorough and frequent cultivations during the first two months after planting with moderate side dressings and very shallow cultivation and mulching the remainder of the season is recommended. As a general practice water only during very dry weather, when it should be very thoroughly done. Little watering will be necessary if soil has been spaded deeply and contains a good amount of humus and is well mulched.

To produce large blooms begin training plants when small by leaving from four to eight of the strongest laterals as low down on the main stem as possible. Remove all side shoots and side buds excepting the main or terminal bud on each of the laterals.

In many sections, the past season, Leaf Hoppers and Thrip were quite troublesome, causing stunted growth. The best known remedy to prevent these attacks is spraying the under side of leaves with a tobacco solution made up according to instructions on the label of the preparation used.
